The German admiralty's plans for this year's U-boat offensive must have counted the cost of which more powerful opposition and in the circumstances mines are probably the Germans' ace-in-the-hole. Working by night when detection is most difficult and steering clear of heavily escorted convoys, the subs may plant mines or torpedoes in straits relatively small. To combat this the United States Navy is considering ... a dangerous ...

the increased effectiveness of United States offshore anti-submarine weapons. Planes, blimps and small ... in numbers many times those ... a year ago now patrol the ... lanes and give hour-by-hour ... to plodding convoys. ... last summer these ... the U-boats to ... Navy men ... what they ...
